"I had a feeling that something was wrong. Why didn't I say or do something?"

Have you ever felt this way about someone else, or had serious negative thoughts about yourself? If you are experiencing emotional pain or know someone who is, don't second guess yourself. Sometimes it is hard to step out of your comfort zone to help someone else or to look for help yourself.

Listed below are behavioral indicators that may warrant the need to reach out for counseling services. Please contact us for further information and assistance.
